Serving with Gratitude

What a phenomenal year for the Hancock County Community Foundation, now the Community Foundation of Hancock County! We spent 2022 thanking our community for the opportunity to serve as its philanthropic partner for 30 years with special events, gifts, and grants. This annual publication shares stories, facts, and figures with a grateful heart.

As with many 30-year-olds, we reflected fondly on our past and prepared for a maturing future. The property at 971 W. US 40 is our new headquarters, and through intensive planning and renovation, it will soon be a thriving community asset. Through strategic partnerships, we identified the future use of 312 E. Main St. as a nonprofit center. We carefully considered and adopted a facelift to our logo and put "community" first with our name change.

We look forward to seeing what the next 30 years and beyond will bring. Thanks to you, we are ready!

The Magic of Match Day

Match Day 2022 provided a unique opportunity for Tom and Carole Bloodgood.

Life-long supporters of community nonprofits, the Bloodgoods have spent the better part of their married lives volunteering their time, talent, and treasures...one organization at a time. "Match Day allowed us a convenient way to support all participating nonprofits with one check," states Carole. "Tom and I were thrilled that our gift to their operating endowments was multiplied with the match, and even happier that our donation grew the future sustainability of these important organizations."

Tom had a special connection with the work of the Community Foundation. He was a founding board member in 1992 and served through 2002. Over the years, both he and Carole have paid close attention to the foundation's growth and impact. Their commitment led to the creation of the Tom and Carole Bloodgood Community Development Fund in 2014, an unrestricted fund, that allows CFHC to address ever-evolving community needs.

CFHC lost a family member when Tom passed away on February 23, 2023; however, we rejoice that the Bloodgoods' legacy will live in perpetuity through their forever gifts.

14 Ways of Giving

"As the Community Foundation of Hancock County's 2022 Community Relations Intern, I had the privilege of working closely with all 14 Match Day nonprofits. While interviewing each nonprofit leader for promotional videos, I was humbled to witness their strong passion for our community as they described the important services their organizations provide to Hancock County residents. I was also impressed by the support Match Day nonprofits demonstrated for each other. The nonprofits' leaders were committed to Match Day's collective success for all participating, not simply the success of their own organizations. Over the course of my internship, I could not help but become inspired by and invested in each Match Day participant, and I was ultimately compelled to make Match Day donations to all 14 critical nonprofits."

-Emily Crump, 2022 CFHC Intern

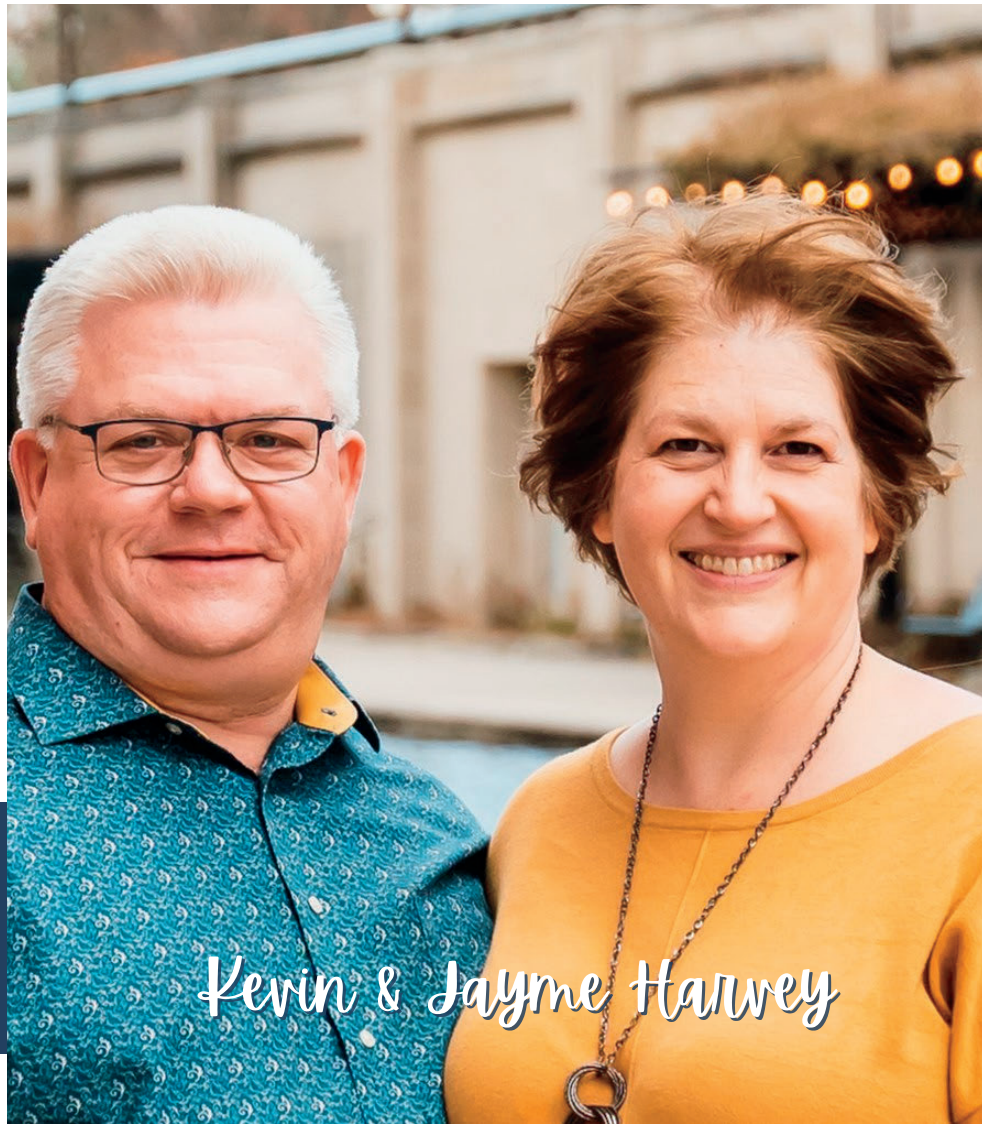

Reflections of a Tenured Board Member

During my tenure as a board member, the Hancock County Community Foundation, Inc., became the Community Foundation of Hancock County, Inc. The name change reflects much more than a reordering of words.

During my nine years of service, the Community Foundation truly has evolved from an organization located in Hancock County to an organization that is nurturing community throughout the county. CFHC remains true to its mission of partnering with donors to create permanent legacies through planned giving – serving as a responsible fiduciary of, now, hundreds of funds that annually award scholarships and grants consistent with donor intent.

Indeed, the growth of CFHC's endowed funds in these years has been remarkable. But several developments in these years have resulted in the Community Foundation becoming a much greater facilitator of increased community development. A few examples include bringing Imagination Library to the county (in partnership with the Hancock County Public Library), the development and launching of the Thrive Center (to enhance local government and community collaboration), and being tasked by the County Commissioners to guide the process for distribution of ARPA funds to local nonprofits.

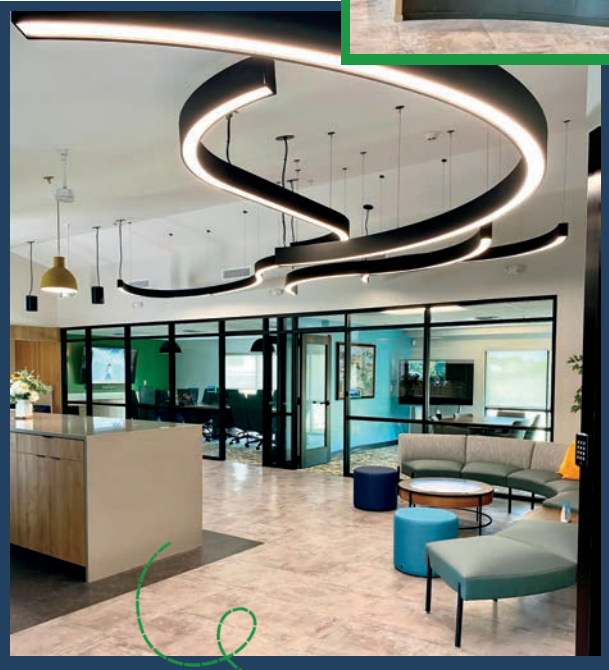

It has been an exciting and rewarding time to serve as a board member. I look forward to seeing the continued growth in the Community Foundation's impact in the years to come. -Kevin Harvey

Strength to Serve

Our location at 971 W. US 40 has been designed to create a sense of place where community is celebrated through the sharing of ideas and the fostering of deeper relationships. It is the home of the Community Foundation's Thrive Center, the Nest, and the Hive... public spaces that encourage networking and learning. Situated on over six acres of green space along the Pennsy Trail, parking is ample, technology is state-of-the-art, and the coffee is brewing!

Preparing & Inspiring

The development of the new Talent Pathway of Hancock County was a substantial endeavor in 2022. Born from a community listening tour, the seven-module program's objective is to prepare and inspire community members to use their talents to elevate daily life, civic leadership, and business leadership across Hancock County by:

- Broadening and deepening the talent pool for civic engagement.
- Helping the public understand civic decision-making and how to engage.
- Providing a knowledge foundation for officials to perform their roles.
- Providing a knowledge foundation for business leaders and managers.
- Providing a knowledge foundation for nonprofit leaders and volunteers.

Talent Pathway participants may live, study, or work in Hancock County. They may hold any range of positions in their communities. They need not be the leaders of major institutions – in fact, it is best that they collectively represent a broad range of perspectives and roles. Their common interest should be to enhance the quality of life in their town or across our county.

Education Across the Ages

A proponent of educational attainment, the Community Foundation prioritizes the removal of access barriers at all life stages. It is appropriate then, that CFHC join fellow stakeholders in an endeavor to make the dream of a local career center a reality.

Since early 2022, momentum has grown to fill this resource gap in Hancock County with a facility dedicated to innovation and education for grades 9-12 and adults. Financial commitments have been made, building designs developed, programming identified, and partnerships with higher education solidified.

In the absence of current infrastructure, county superintendents have joined forces for the provision of trade and technical courses for high school students. Starting next fall, opportunities that students would otherwise leave Hancock County to acquire will be offered locally through this collaboration.

“Driving 45 minutes out of the county for pre-nursing credentials my senior year of high school was daunting,” shares one student . “Not only did it take me away from my home school and my friends, but my parents worried for my safety on a daily basis.”
-Hancock County Graduate

The Community Foundation is thrilled to support educators and business leaders as they strive to create a future facility that ensures both high school students and adults can access tools for a thriving livelihood.

Success at Any Stage of Life

Hollie Kinker has been an active part of the Hancock County community since childhood when she volunteered at her church and was a 10-year member of the Hancock County 4-H Program. As a parent, she served on the PTO board for her children's elementary school. From 2020-2021 she served as a CASA (Court Appointed Special Advocate) for an eight-month-old. She and her children also volunteer at the Kenneth Butler Memorial Soup Kitchen.

She currently works in the Hancock County Auditor's Office where she has become aware that, "as my county grows, so does their need for increased resources in various areas such as environmental, social, and economic concerns." After securing her associate degree in general studies at Ivy Tech, Hollie is now a student at I.U. East in Sustainability Studies, minoring in Environmental Science.

While parenting, working a full-time job, supporting the educational goals of her teenaged children, and taking 12 credit hours of college, Hollie has achieved a 4.0 GPA during her first year of study at I.U. East.

Hollie states, "I am humbled by the opportunity that the Community Foundation of Hancock County has given me to pursue my educational and career goals! Through their generous gift I was able to complete my associate degree at Ivy Tech and am now rounding into my senior year at Indiana University-East."

The Community Foundation of Hancock County is proud to support non-traditional students like Hollie in attaining their educational goals and making their lives and the lives of others in our community better!

"I am humbled by the opportunity that the Community Foundation of Hancock County has given me..."

No Longer Hopeless

In 2021, Roshelle (Ro) Evans graduated as a Certified Medical Assistant. But before she could achieve this, she had to gain her sobriety with the help of the Talitha Koum Women's Recovery House.

After losing a loved one unexpectedly, Ro battled alcohol addiction for nearly a decade. "I was definitely hopeless," shares Ro. "I had no love for myself, no self-respect. I didn't think I was capable of doing anything productive."

"I was definitely hopeless," shares Ro.
"I had no love for myself, no self-respect.
I didn't think I was capable of doing anything productive."

-Ro Evans

Ro says she came to Talitha Koum not sure what to expect but knowing she wanted something better. She happily shares she'll be three years sober on Aug. 7 and feels like "the sky's the limit" for her. She has also become a Peer Recovery Coach so she can help others suffering from addiction to reclaim their lives.

Linda Ostewig, executive director of Talitha Koum, approached the Community Foundation with the concern that they were seeing many success stories like Ro's; however, when those ladies were ready to move on from the recovery house, they couldn't afford housing in Hancock County.

The Community Foundation made a $5,000 grant to provide financial assistance for Talitha Koum graduates as they set out on their own. After months of searching, Ro was able to secure housing in Hancock County and begin her independent life, though never forgetting her time at Talitha Koum.

"I left knowing that no matter what, it didn't end there," states Ro. "I was always welcome to come back (to the Talitha Koum House). This will always be my home."

Learn more about Ro's story and the work of Talitha Koum at talithakoum.org.

No Longer Homeless

Suzye Poley purchased a house and plot of land in New Palestine in 2021. As she was settling in, she made a startling discovery.

"I was very happy there with my small dogs for almost an hour," she recalls. "That was when I realized the place came equipped with 25 cats."

Over the next year, Suzye found homes for all but two of the cats. However, last spring those two cats produced 13 kittens.

"I tried to get the cats spayed or neutered, but at that time COVID was on everyone's mind, and the places that help weren't helping," she says. "Then I latched on to PAWS."

Partners for Animal Welfare Society (PAWS) is a nonprofit animal rescue in Hancock County that works to control domestic animal overpopulation through a low-cost spay/neuter program. In 2022, the Community Foundation granted PAWS $8,065 to provide residents like Suzye with these services at an affordable price.

Suzye found homes for most of the cats, and she plans to keep the remaining cats, stating she is fond of them and they are great mousers. With PAWS' support, most of them are now fixed. She's still working to catch the last two. When she does, PAWS will be ready to help.

Learn more about the work of PAWS at pawshancock.org.

"I just can't make it through another batch of kittens," she relates. "My dogs, cats, and I are all eating on the same (limited) budget, and feeding more kittens would be difficult."

-Suzye Poley

The Garriott Legacy

Despite not having children of their own, William and Barbara Garriott had a heart for young people and education. William, a veteran and retired real estate developer, was nearing the end of his life when he reached out to his attorney to rewrite his Last Will and Testament. Bill (92) and Barb (90) both passed away in 2022 and gifted part of their estate to establish the William L. and Barbara J. Garriott Memorial Scholarship that benefits students in both Hancock and Shelby counties.

Ron Polly was a dear friend of the Garriotts and shared with the Community Foundation kind sentiments about Bill and Barb. Ron states, "They were both very quiet, humble, and honest people. They didn't boast about what they had or what they did not have. Bill and Barb were very charitable and cared a lot about people."

During Bill's professional career, which he worked until the last year of his life, he developed Schildmeier Woods in New Palestine, Brandywine Trace in Morristown, a medical facility in Cumberland, and many other developments. Barb was Bill's right hand in the business handling the administration work and as the secretary and treasurer of their company. The Community Foundation of Hancock County is honored and humbled to steward this fund that will benefit students for years to come as the Garriott legacy lives on. If you or someone you know is interested in giving through the Community Foundation through a planned giving vehicle, please contact Emily Wilson at emily@CelebrateHancock.org or 317.462.8870.
