

Imagine the possibilities...

Generosity

ust 5%. We live in a unique time. Studies show that we live in a window of ten years when a great deal of wealth will be passed from one generation to the next. The dear people of the Greatest Generation fought the big war and those on the home front did their part to provide resources needed to obtain victory. Following WWII, businesses were born and grew. The economy began to thrive and formal philanthropy practices took root. Men and women of this era were hard workers, saved what they earned, but gave generously to causes they cared about. They shared these values with their children. As these individuals pass their wealth to those of us who are considered Baby Boomers, we have an opportunity to make a choice...the choice to pay it forward and to give a little of what we receive for the greater good. How about just 5%?

Sometimes, we Baby Boomers are referred to as the "Me Generation," but we have an opportunity to dispel that label and to set an excellent example of generosity to Generation X and the Millennials. If each of us gave just 5% of our assets to funds at a charitable endowment like the Hancock County Community Foundation (HCCF), the income earned would be life changing for causes we care about. For instance, community development funds created for the benefit of Hancock County would provide HCCF the flexibility to address some of our most pressing needs. Hunger could be eliminated, small towns could be revitalized, and every graduating student could receive financial assistance to attain a post-secondary credential. The opportunities would be endless, if only we each gave just 5%.

What motivated the Green's? "Basically, it comes down to the fact that we are very grateful for what we have been able to do through our involvement in church, work and the community. We want to give back with our time, talent and treasure. Okay, so I don't have so much talent", laughed Howard.

When Howard's father and Linnea's mother passed away within a year of each other, it allowed for them to reflect on their parents' lives and the examples they had set. They each received estate gifts, giving them the opportunity to consider how they might further causes for which they are passionate, while honoring their parents' memories. Howard and Linnea established a designated fund

> Today, Howard and Linnea are seeing their fund at work. Although the Green's established an endowment fund during their lifetime, they have included the Howard A. and Linnea A. Green Charitable Endowment as a beneficiary of their living revocable trust. "We chose HCCF because from Howard of the goals of organization, the low fees associated with maintaining and growing the fund assets, and because we know they will invest our funds responsibly," shared Howard. "I hope we will be as good of an example to our kids as our parents were to us. Community is important and the Hancock County Community Foundation is a great place to start." giveHCgrowHC.org

HCSS and HART now reside on 1.67 acres on Fields Boulevard equipped with a 14-bay garage and 4,000 square feet of office space.

he boxes had been packed, the furniture moved, and all that was left to do, was say good-bye. Linda Hart, Executive Director of Hancock County Senior Services (HCSS) and Hancock Area Rural Transit (HART), was set to leave a building she and her staff had called home for thirteen years. The organization had simply outgrown 312 E. Main Street, Suite A.

For years, the organization shared space with HCCF in downtown Greenfield, but from 2000-2013 the staff had grown from nine to 35. They increased their fleet of vehicles from three to 12 and their client base exploded from 344 to 1081. HCCF recognized the need to grow with HCSS to support its ability to serve; so in 2004, we purchased property to expand the parking lot, and in 2006, dedicated additional office space.

Even with those efforts, it became obvious that HCSS would need to acquire a facility more suited to its needs. In 2011, they began a $1.5 million building campaign entitled "We Don't Know What We'd Do Without You," a sentiment shared by many whom the organization has served. They expanded their applied to UWCI's Capital Improvement Program for a 1:1 match from Lilly Endowment contingent upon services since raising local funds. HCCF was pleased to support the effort with a $10,000 grant. In addition, we have granted more than $100,000 to HART and HCSS for programs and operating expenses since 1994. Although we were sad to lose such an excellent neighbor, we are honored to enhance HCSS' and HART's ability to serve the community.

Transform

Change can be difficult and challenging, but also truly transformational. In the spring of 2013, Edelweiss Equine Assisted Therapy moved to a new location. After months of planning, the property, owned by HCCF, thanks to the generous donation of the late Lewis Strahl, was staged to be Edelweiss' new home. The organization's staff and volunteers rolled up their sleeves and began the hard work of transforming a grazing pasture to a safe, functional, aesthetically pleasing, therapeutic riding facility. Three feet of manure was removed from the 100 year old barn, structural reinforcements made, new doors installed, and a new coat of paint applied. Fencing was repaired, new posts and hot wire installed, and the pasture has been strategically mapped to provide adequate space for rotational grazing. In addition to becoming Edelweiss's new landlord, we have granted $70,300 to them since 2004. Executive Director Shirley Mascoe says, "Our partnership with HCCF has provided Edelweiss immediately with adequate land for our herd and the multi-year lease agreement will provide adequate time for the organization to raise money for the infrastructure so that Edelweiss can provide year-round services."

tant features an organization must possess in order to reach those that need their services? Accessibility and visibility! When HCCF invited a select group of nonprofits to apply for Office Space Grants, those in need of both virtues were identified for the invitation. But even more important, was how the services of these organizations' would fit into our initiative to empower women and their families to become self-sufficient. Indeed, we identified an opportunity to align our desire to further the initiative, address a physical vacancy that needed to be filled, and provide much needed funding to enrich vital organizations.

ANSWER:

giveHCgrowHC.org

Renovation began in March of 2013 and by June of 2013, HCCF welcomed The Children's Bureau (Amanda Swindell unavailable for photo), Mental Health Partners of Hancock County (MHP), Leaders in Navigating Knowledge (LINK), and the Women's Resource Center to 312 E. Main Street, Suites A, D, E, and F. Together, they make a powerful team with like-minded missions. The four organizations reside only feet from each other and, where appropriate, are connecting each other's clients with fellow services. In their new location, they are accessible to the community and the awareness of their organizations is heightened through their visibility.

Each of the four nonprofits were awarded grants totaling $27,324.91 to offset the expense of rent over the next three years: 75% of the expense in year one, 50% in year two, and 25% in year three. All are expected to be in a position to independently meet the full expense of rent at the onset of a new three year lease.

Welcome

The difference made when HCSS and HART moved from HCCF was a bit shocking. What was once a very busy parking lot full of vehicles, became a quiet piece of asphalt leading to the back of a building that had remained relatively hidden ... and it wasn't pretty. It was obvious, that for the new organizations moving in, we needed a more welcoming entrance for the clients they serve. Unfortunately, our resources for the building had been used to renovate the interior from one suite to four. Thankfully, Pearson and Jeannine Miller recommended a grant from their Donor Advised Fund to HCCF to offset costs related to new siding, a new porch, shutters and lighting. Two air conditioning units were moved to the roof and concrete pillars were installed to guard the entrance from approaching cars. Says Pearson, "With schematics, plans, and estimates in hand, Mary shared with us the need to improve the appearance of the north entrance. We said an immediate "yes" to her challenge. We are privileged to share with the Community Foundation, the social service agencies, and the county's residents this new 'front face' of HCCF and its tenants."

What is a Donor Advised Fund and how does it work? giveHCgrowHC.org

Stewardship

"We are pleased to be able to have this opportunity to help our community perpetually through the Community Foundation,"

Leon Wilson, 1995

n 2013, HCCF received three bequest gifts, creating permanently endowed funds that will soon provide a perpetual stream of income for charitable causes. The Community Foundation's role is to protect and grow the gifts through careful investment practices and administer the funds' charitable purposes for generations to come.

Lifetime members of Hancock County, Leon and Minnie Wilson founded Leon Wilson Real Estate in 1964. Through years of hard work, the humble couple grew a successful business, and as a result, felt compelled to leave a legacy in the community that had been so good to them. In August of 1995, Leon and Minnie established a Charitable Remainder Unitrust, a vehicle that provided them lifetime income, with the intent of remaining assets being transferred to the Leon and Minnie Wilson Charitable Endowment Fund at HCCF, upon their deaths. As a result of their generosity, grants will be made perpetually to The Arc of Hancock County, Shares Inc., and to HCCF for community grantmaking.

Esther Barnhart Cook graduated from Eden High School in 1934 and from Ball State Teachers School in 1937 at which time she began a long and treasured teaching career in Hancock County. She taught children at New Palestine Elementary, Eden Elementary, and Wilkinson Elementary where she retired in 1978. It's no wonder, that when planning her estate, she named two funds at HCCF as a beneficiary of her will. As a result, students enrolled in Ball State University's elementary education program will receive scholarships in her name and Hancock Regional Hospital Foundation will receive grants for operating support.

The Legacy Properties of HCCF

HCCF has been honored to receive gifts in the form of property. In 1999, we received the Pasco Funeral Home which now serves as the beautiful home of our office and that of another six nonprofits. Shortly thereafter, thirty acres of woods, now known as the Jacob Schramm Nature Preserve, and in 2009 the gift of a 155 acre farm. To best address the unique stewardship practices required, HCCF created a supporting organization. Similar to a for-profit LLC, a supporting organization has its own Board of Directors, but supports the public, charitable work of the Community Foundation.

On June 7, 2013, Legacy Properties of HCCF was incorporated in Indiana. Through its establishment, HCCF is better positioned to accept, purchase, hold, sell, and manage real and personal property for the benefit of the Community Foundation and its mission to further our donor's charitable interests. The supporting organization allows HCCF to manage gifts of property while separating property-related liabilities from endowed assets.

HCCF is grateful to receive and steward gifts of revenue-producing property for charitable purposes. If considering a gift of land to support your favorite charitable causes, please contact Mary Gibble, President.

Caring for Farmland

HCCF takes its role as a property steward very seriously. In 2009, HCCF became the owner of a farm donated by Lewis Strahl. Income earned from the property supports scholarships and the work of his church. In addition, HCCF also re-invests a portion of the income back into the property to ensure the land remains a lasting treasure. Steps taken to care for the gift of land from Lewis include:

- Researching, determining, and collecting cash rent at reasonable, responsible rates
- Hiring a local farmer to tend the tillable property
- Conducting annual soil testing
- Implementing a three year fertilization plan to improve soil quality and crop production
- Repairing field tiles
- Repairing or removing fencing as needed
- Clearing ditches
- Collaborating with neighbors

One can rest assured that HCCF will honor future gifts with the same care and concern for property while remaining true to the donor's charitable intent.

The Women's Fund of Hancock County

Gifts below were made by women and girls to support the efforts of the Women's Fund, a component fund of HCCF. The fund creates opportunities through the effective distribution of grants to relevant programs and initiatives with the objective of creating transformative, sustainable change. Those who make an annual gift commitment become a member of the Women's Fund, a giving circle. Giving circles are a form of philanthropy consisting of groups of individuals who pool their resources for maximum impact. The Fund's current funding priority is the Women's Resource Center which, beginning in June 2014, will provide guidance, tools, and resources to increase the financial stability and economic security of women and their families.
